SATURDAY, JULY 27, 1861. FIGHT AT BIRD'S POINT.

If our Calro correspondent is not mista-ken in his dispatch of last evening, our boys at Cairo will probably have work to do before another week is past. He says that an expedition from Memphis is daily expected at Bird's Point, and that our troops are ready for any entertainment to which the rebels may invite them. The dispatch has some confirmation from the fact that Gen. Prentiss yesterday telegraphed for all his boys here on leave of absence, to return without a moment's de-lay. We are not without suspicion, however, that the demonstration at Memphis is intended for Western Missouri, and that

GLOHIOE'S NEWS.

The order of the War Office, creating a new Department including each bank of the Potomac, and a few of the counties of Maryland in the vicinity of Washington, to the command of which Major-General George B. McClellan is assigned, will be the oc asion of universal rejoicing among all loyal men. By this order, Generals McDowell and Mansfield are superceded, and the youthful hero, who has given signal proof of his ability to lead his countrymen to victory, has a vast weight of responsibility thrown upon him; but we are mistaken if he does not prove equal to the fask. It is said by private letters dated on Tuesday, that the General will virtually be the Commander-in-Chief of the American Army; that Gen. Scott, infirm in health and oppressed by age, will, in a great measure, withdraw from the discharge of the active duties of his high station, and remaining as the adviser and friend of the Administration in all matters touching the general plan of the campaign, will-leave to more youthful hands the vast labor that he has undertaken to perform. If this be true, we shall have youth and genius, tempered by the wisdom of age and the lessons of experience, at the helm. Who then can doubt that with such a leader and such an adviser, both supported by the people who offer their money and hyde people who offer their money an

Who then can doubt that with such a leader and such an adviser, both supported by the people who offer their money and their lives for the defence of our holy cause—who can doubt that the clouds of to-day will be reft and that victory will perch upon our banners?

REBEL BARBARITES.

We have been slow to believe the accounts brought from Bull's Run by our men, of the barbarities macteel by the rebels upon our wounded on that battlefield. The story told us by a Fire Zonave in Washington, with apparent candor and truthfulness, that he saw the villains deliberately cut off the head of a wounded man who lay at their mercy, and afterward kinek it about as a foot-ball; and that other story, though related by many of our bors.

There are fewer men and offers a should and burnaries and the saw the villains deliberately cut off the head of a wounded man who lay at their mercy and afterward kick it about as a foot-ball; and that other story, though related by many of our bors.

There are fewer men and offers and these about as a foot-ball; and that other story, though related by many of our bors.

There are fewer men and offers as the saw the villains deliberately cut off the head of a wounded man who lay at their mercy and afterward kinek it about as a foot-ball; and that other story, though related by many of our bors.

There are fewer men and offers as the same and the same to be so used, is gone from the trade of the rebels added the wounded and hown to be so used, is gone from the total that other wounded in the same up the read on which one of the wounded is a fact that the result is a same and the s story, though related by many of our boys, that they saw numbers of our wounded their own bayonets; and that report that our hospitals were fired upon and burned, But the testimony of our discorrect, and that others still more horblood curdles with horror at the idea that the proof that they have been performed tion that has fearful meaning. Let us hope that a war of extermination may not be inaugurated.

COL. HUNTBR-CAPT. PRY. All accounts agree that the fighting a Bull Run was done chiefly, if not wholly by the divisions of Col. DAVID HUNTER of Illinois, and Col. S. P. HEINTZLEMAN of Illinois, and Col. S. P. The British Admiral's Opinion of the Buci His Report to the British Admiralty—He siders the Biochade Totally Ineffectat—Aj at the Port—The Wilson Zanases,

Through a third party I have been endess oring for some time to obtain something lik the substance of a report of our blockade made to the British Admirally by Admir Milne, the Commander-in-Chief of Her Sr tannic Majesty's naval forces here. I halearned three things from undoubted author by: first, that Lord Paget had instructed the Admiral to detail vessels to look after the cut bors of revolted States. Leaving out the verbiege, here is its substances:

I regret that it is my duty to discuss, in a measure, the nature of this so-called blockade. Representatives of the United States meet me with two statements, the force of which it will be for your lordships to decide. I am told by some that there is no pretensions on the part of the United States of a blockade existing that the Government is merely closing its own ports, to do which they claim to have a part of the United States of a blockade existing that the Government is merely closing its own ports, to do which they claim to have a part of the United States of all the officers. Capit Adams, for instance, writing on board the Sabine, on May 19, says in a letter of the United States 's publicly promusing the same officers. Capit Adams, for instance, of the same officers of the United States' publicly promusing the same of the same time.

A grace of fifteen days was given to vessel under certain circumstances, which were a confusedly explained, that no one I have seen thus far could properly understand them Three British ships, laden with cotton in the harbor of Mobile, were compelled to pack u after the announcement of the blockade.

The frequency of vessels escaping the vigilance of the United States squadron, are too numerous to be swin manued. I sant Capt. Von Dusop, of the Jason, to look after the interests of our shipping, and to the efficiency of the blockading ships, in several ports. He mentions minerous cases of ships, barks, and brigs, escapting the cruiders. I learn that while a large and coasters continued to pass in to the city, and out again, either regardless of, or insensible to, the presence of was ships.

The numerous facts establishing the perfect in fliciency of the mon ofwar, in regard to the stopping of commercial intercourse with ports before which they have appeared, could be claborated to a great length. But even now, the Admiral, permit your correspondent to say, is writing about the 2d of June, St. Marks, an important port, is not at all cut off from marillime trade, as one of my fleet saw all sorts of vessels enter and depart from it, willout being impeded. Apalachicola was thronged with crait until a few days since, and four other ports are stated to be open to-day. A regular steamer communication is constantly kept up between Savannah, an important harbor in the State of Georgis, and some other port.

Above you have all the facts, which, I have reason to believe, are by this time before the English Government. The document from which I make this extract is said to be almost a perfect copy of the Admiral's official report, the nature of which is as fully understood in American and British circles in Havana, as we know the irrepressible tone of hostility towards our country which Britons give uttersheed to the same and the fact, which, the term of followed his exert and careful style.

The Killed at Carthage.

Six families arrived here yesterday from the immediate neighberhood of Carthage Mo. They are consident that the accessionate lost iffers handred men in the battle. They say it sook from Friday till the next Thursday sight to bury the dead; and some of the men now here engaged in the burish.

About air hundred werefound on the original battle field, and the rest scattered along the whole lize of retreat, especially in the timber through which lighed made his final escape.

This statement diffuse materially from Col. Signils official report, but it must be remembered that he has not been over the field since the fight.

Again, I affirmed that the discipline of the camp was not what it ought to have been and L. C. replies by referring to the professor. Of the composition of the camp was not what it ought to have been and L. C. replies by referring to the professor. I reply, that it's a great pity that L. C. bad'nt been sent to West Point or some other place, where he might have seared that discipline includes drill, and includes also a great deal more; and to say that troops elicit compliments from Major-denerals on dress panade, or a brigade raview, does not prove that they have been subjected to as strict and thorough discipline as they might to ought to have been. I affirmed that all the whisky abops ought to have been shut up, and the liquor emptied into the river, and L. C. says that I siander the troops. I do not deny what he says in regard to the general sobriety of the troops, on the contrary I cheerfully corroboxed murder committed by him while in a drunken fit, as one of a number of facts which justify what I said. Surely the destruction of every drop of "distilled damnation" in Cairo would have been a small matter compared to the loss of an inoffensive dilzen, and the loss of an otherwise good soldier.

One hundred transportation wagons are drawn up in line, and, with their white canvass, look as though our army was on the march. Nearly three hundred mules have been received, and these are rapidly being made ready for their first ex-perience in transportation. Twenty wagons are now loading with supplies for Lyon's forces at Springfield, and will start as soon as the creeks are a little lower—perhaps Thureday. The road is comparatively asia between these two points, although the officers last arrived from Springfield report passing near a body of one hundred rebest, who were auppfied to be on the track of the last supply usin from Rolla. There are but two companies between this post and Springfield—one at Waynesville and one at Lebanon—but when the 18th moves southward, if this piace is still held as a military post, there will undoubtedly be a much larger turn for the road.

POWER OF ATTORNEY.

Any number of men who served in the same company, regiment, and especity may join in executing the same Power of Attorney, their Christian and stransuse being inserted in full, and the form being j roperly waried. If the volunteers claim for any other service, insert that, instead of "there months." The acknowledgement may be made before a judge or clerk of any Court of the United States, or of this State; a notary public, or justice of the peace, but when made before a justice of the peace, but when made before a justice of the peace, but when made before a justice of the peace, but when made before a justice of the peace, but when made before a justice of the peace, but when made before a justice of the peace, bis official character, and the genuences of his signature, must be verified by the certificate, under seal, of a Clerk of a Court of Record.

If the officer taking the acknowledgement knows the fact of service, he can so certify without requiring further proof of identity, but if he does not, he will require the proof according to the form. Officers cannot be too careful in regard to this point of identity. They should also insert, or sign, their given and stranses in tull, without abhore/ation.

The execution of Powers of Atterney, when not acknowledgee, may be proved by the oath of a subscribing witness, before any of the above named officers; the certificate of proof, in auch case, aboving that the identity of the volunteer was also proven.

Psymasters of the United Statos Army will probably regime the attorney in fact, to make afflavit "that the power was not given to him by reason of any sale or transfer of the jay," referred to in the Fower of Attorney.

Among the most atrocious acts of the many the rebels have perpetrated in this county, and which, as we record it, we feel to be the saddest event we ever have been calleds upon to pen, was the wanton inurder of Major Henjamin Sharp, of Danville; also, of Lleut, Jacger of the United States army. The two were in a language, going to the home of Major Sharp, who was conveying Lieut. Jacger there, he being quite sick, when they were fired upon by a party concealed on the roadside in the bushes. Their horse, taking fright, ran smile, finally dashing the wounded men out of the bushes. Their horse, taking fright, ran smile, finally dashing the wounded men out of the bushes. Major Sharp was a prominent and influential manners are a lawyer by profession—has represented the county, and was also in the Senate. He has been at all times, and even beyond the limits of his purse, a benevolent man—his bravery could only equal his generosity, and no danger could ever deter lim from his daty—prompt to resent a wrong either on himself or the weak, and equally ready to acknowledge an error.

He leaves to mourn his fate, besides a militude of frields, a wife, equally kind and benevolent with himself; also five children, one or whom, ason, is bravely combating for the rights and liberties o quiet gentleman now on the cars for Washington, is more imperiant than more regiments now. The question arises, and will be beard throughout the land, why the sucry—the understanding that there is acrisis of awful import at hand—which we now see, was not displayed sirtly days ago? But we need not discuss that now. This is no time to mourn over opportunities lost. It is our duty to look the tuture in the face. There must be—there is to be—a grand effort made with the concentrated power of the Government, to wipe out the diagrace which fell upon our arma at Manassas. The people are distressed, but not disheartened, they know the attrength of this cause, and their own strength, and can be patient yet, let time enough be taken to do all things well, in the way of preparation, but let it be appreciated that every day is of inestimable importance. Every hour is big with fate. Every minute is precious. We must see every neve strained, the the work is to be done. The measures taken should be prompt, declaive, conprehensive and thorough. Another three moeths playing with the edged tools of war, diplomatifing in small matters, dickering with contractors, appending the favortle asset of prominent politician regular officers, and diplomsizing in small matters, dickering with contractors, appeinting the laworite asset of prominent politicisan regular officers, and permitting Cohenis to loaf, and nuarter matter to cheat the men out of their bread and meat—and we are lost. Three mouths of exacting effort, and the rebel army, now so exuitant over a victory which was won, not through their own ments, but our deficiencies—will be crushed out of the State of Virginia. The loyal people of the mountains of Etst Tennessee will have welcomed our armies; the city of Charleston will have been invested, and the expedition that is to remove the obstructions to the navigation of the Mesissippi, will be chandering at the galess of Memphia.

It was, therefore, for the Government to speak in this juncture, as the committee had no power of themselves. To set in the matter.

Capt. Chas. H. Marshall said he fully concurred in the suggestion that it was the duty of the merchants and citizens of New York to convene a meeting for the public expression of their opinions, and not only to take into consideration the army department, but another which, in his opinion, was exceedingly defective. He then alluded to the rejection of a number of fine cavalry regiments. It was well known that the ocean is now warming with privateers. The Secretary of the Navy had it in his power, if he had the ability, to have percented these piratcal vessels from getting out to see. He did not know that that Cabinet officer had been in any way disinciliad to act in this way, but he could very easily see that he had not the ability, and that he had undertaken a thing which he know nothing about. He could very easily have had the ports of the South closed in twenty days from the signing of the proteamatics of the President But hasted of that, there was in that he commerce of the country. The case of the Suntices are published every day in the papers concerning the ravages are had committed. She had take the dozens of prizes, and actually went out of port with a vessel of war in sight. He had angested to the department The Reverse at Manassas.

The grave and conservative Philadelphia North American thus comments on the defeat of the National forces at Manassas:

It was a policy not easy to approve, to permit the rebel forces to use the railroads almost within sight of Washington for morths in transporting the caunon they took from the national stores and troops at their will, to the choice of positions all along the front of our lines. We sat down in the shallow of the Capitol and intranched, while they used the railroad vigorously in concentrating arms and troops. They sent forces to Harper's Furry, and again withdrew them. They went to and fro in all directions as they pleas ed, and shot our pickets at leisure. It is not wonderful that they were well prepared with masked batteries, and that their positions were at last held with great strength, and taken by ma algreat loss of life. It is not wonderful that they were well prepared with masked batteries, and that their positions were at last held with great strength, and taken by ma algreat loss of life. It is not wonderful that as the tide of fair battle went against them they brought a reserve by their easy railroad to menace our sink and to put our exhausted roops in ter ror of having their communications with the rear cut off. That troops should get into a pasic in such circumstances, is not unprocedented, and that they should tall into a flight scarcely more than a natural consequence.

The Union is strong enough, thank God, to curvive even this great disaster, and the arms taken up in its delence are powerful enough to retrieve even greater losses. The lesson caught us is, that this war was a more atraitions thing than we had believed it; that it had its origin in a debasement of the pusceding the factoricity purpose; they knew nothing of us that did not sill them with enuity. This peaceful prosperity they care more to destro than to an apparent of the peaceful citizens of the loyal States, this is a call a hundred fold as loud, and it agricus the whole rebel force at t

The facts were published every day in the papers concerning the ravages as a had committed. She had taken dozens of prizes, and actually went out of port with a vassel of war in sight. He had suggested to the department two months ago, that if the government vassels were not ready for sea, and could not be placed in position for some time, that they should charter merchant steamers—of which we possess any number—fit them out for the temporary service needed, and place them to blockade the various ports until the regular vassels of the navy could be got ready. The work required of them was clearly shown in the case of the quaker City, which was maderady for sea, armed and equipped in 36 hours. If these fine steamers had been taken up by the government, not a fishing boat would have been permitted to escape from a 6outhern port. There would have been no necessity for the recapture of one of our vassels by the strong arm of a single negro—absolutely the greatest and most negro—absolutely the atrong arm of a single negro—absolutely the atrong arm of a single negro—absolutely the atrong arm of a single negro—absolutely the strong arm of a single negro—absolutely the been stolen by the robbers who had escaped to sea. He was compelled the say and the strong and the negro—absolutely the strong and the strong and the strong and t

Linners Response.—We are informed by General Mather that more than torty companies have been tendered the Governor of Illinois for the United States' service since Tender morning last. At least thirty thousand men besides those in the field are now organized in this State, and auxious to "go to the wars,"—State Journal.

Moses Grinnell, Esq., thought that Net York was now as ready as ever she was to us York was now as ready as ever she was to usevery means to put down this rebellion, seemed to him the time had come when it great public of .ew York should once more speak its unied, and a great public meeting I this city should be called. We all know it effect and infinence of the late manmoth de monstration in New York, which gave a tout to the whole country. Such another meetin was, according to his view, a necessary thin, But he did not say that he would advise it et tirely on his own responsibility. He merel threw out the thought as a suggestion, as with the view of giving more ardor to the copie, for this they could scarcely have, but is let the world know that New York stand now where she stood at the begining of the war. The repulse of the Union arms was no a thing unexpected even in Washington there were circumstances which is to the bothers were circumstances which is to the bothers. HOME INSURANCE PIRE AND MARINE. The Union Insurance AND TRUST COMPANY, on by the Committee would now be in the field. He had that morning seen in a paper which purports to speak pretty pearly the sentiments of the Severary of War, a statement to the effect that the Department had received all the troops which had been offered. He denied the assertion, and would point to the fact that the Tammany and Mosart regiments had not been accepted by the Severary of War. They were now in Washington, sent there by the Union Defense Committee; and he was giad to say that through the wise counsels which prevailed in other quarters they had been received. But for the difficulties which the Severary of War threw in the way, there would have been an overwhelming force sent on to Washington. Now the Government was crying alond for troops, and they would not gold in vain, for there were men now only waiting for orders to go wherever the Government or the heads of the Departments might signify. He had made these rumarks because numerous calls had been made upon him for aid and assistance in the formation of regiments. As one of the members of the committee, he could say that they asked no reinnucration, no consideration; their only desire wes to spend the money on trusted to their care by the will of the people for the good of the service, fairly, faithfully and honestly; and to do their duty to their country and to themselves as etitions. In are were now over ten to twelve regiments which could be got ready and despatched to Wash-CARITAL, $200,000, CIS B. PRABODY, Attorney at Law Firm or Morrou Street. — Kesterday at 11 A. M., a fire broke out in a small fire proof building on the corner of Monroe and Market attreets, occupied by Messrs. Barrett, Powell & Co., composition roofers. There was nothing to burn but the stock, which from its in flaunable character, got up, as seen from a distance, the semblance of a large conflagration. The engines were speedily at work and the fire extinguished, the total loss being about $1.000.

A Chicago Man Lores at a Race.—The Milwankee Santiase of pesterday says a Mr. Warner—a Chicago man—had his pocket picked of ten dollars, at the race course in that city on Thursday. He says that a friend who was with him suffered in a similar manner, though not so heavily, losing only his wallet, which was empty. Mr. Warner does not suffer much from the loss, as he says the money was bed on "Sam Patch," and he would have lost it anyway.

The Army Brans.—Our reference yesterday to an operator who prefers to bay monly beam for the army and run his chance of sliding them into botter grades, should be so narrowed down in its application as not to include several highly respectable resident parties who are carefully buying large lots of prime beens to fill a ray confracts. Large quantities are being bought in this market. We hope the inspectors, if they "know beans," will rigidity reject the poorer qualities.
